Silverleaf Brandmark

Brandmark

The Silverleaf brandmark is a visible and valuable brand asset and should serve as the foundation for all visual communications.

The brandmark expresses who the brand is. It is the face of the brand and the main consumer touch point. Therefore, it's important that the brandmark is always applied consistently.

The brandmark should be used in all internal facing documents and collateral.

Brandmark with Tagline

The brandmark with tagline should be used in the first instance to introduce the brand and across all external facing communications and collateral.

Logomark

The logomark is the Silverleaf emblem and should be used to solidify brand awareness. It can be used as a watermark throughout documents or on collateral with limited space,

Silverleaf Brandmark

Clear Space

To maintain the clarity, integrity and legibility of the brandmark, the following clear space has been specified.

The clear space refers to the minimum surface surrounding the brandmark. This area must remain free of any other graphic elements and/or text.

The clear space (S) has been defined by the height of the letter S in 'Silverleaf'.

Where possible, maintain more clear space around the brandmark than the minimum size specified.

Recommended size 70mm wide

Recommended size 70mm wide

Recommended Size

Make sure that the brandmark is always clearly visible and the text is legible. For consistency, a recommended brandmark size of 70mm wide has been determined for use on printed applications.

Minimum Size

The minimum size may vary depending on the process or materials used.

Minimum size 30mm wide

Minimum size 45mm wide

Minimum size 5mm wide

Silverleaf Brandmark

Placement

Where possible, the brandmark and logomark should always be placed in the bottom left corner of branded collateral. The minimum distance from the bottom left corner is determined by the clear space.

Silverleaf Brandmark

Brandmark Colourways

The Silverleaf brandmark can be expressed in two primary colourways and combinations. Electric blue should be the first and most common choice where possible.

The appropriate format should be used to maximise legibility, with a strong contrast between the brandmark and the background.

The brandmark is only to be reproduced in these colourways. When the brandmark is placed on a solid colour background it should always be all white in colour to maximise legibility.

The monotone brandmark should only be used when full colour reproduction is not possible. This brandmark is available in black, white and grey

Brandmark Misuse

It is important that the appearance of the brandmark remains consistent. It should not be misinterpreted, modified or added to.

To the right are examples of what NOT to do to the brandmark. Common mistakes include:

- Stretching or distorting the logo
- Altering the alignment of the logo
- Using different colours in the logo
- Changing the alignment of the logo
- Applying a shadow or effect to the logo
- Applying a stroke or border to the logo
- Changing the typeface
- Not ensuring legibility of the logo when placed over image or colour
- Rotating the logo

Silverleaf Brandmark

School Locations

- Use these brandmarks to specify the school campus location.
- These brandmarks should only appear on collateral that is specific to that school. I.e. An event flyer at that campus, an internal document, a presentation for that school.
- These brandmarks can only be reproduced on an electric blue background and in all white.
- As the network of Silverleaf schools grow, so to will the brandmarks for each of their locations across Tanzania.

Brand Colours

To retain brand recognition, the colour palette must remain consistent and accurate. Shown on this page are all the different colours for the Silverleaf Brand.

Primary Colour Palette

The primary colour palette consists of light blue, electric blue, silver, black and white. These should be the more dominant colours across all collateral.

Highlight Colour

Gold is a highlight colour and should be used minimally to make important information stand out or for internal communications.

Colour Shades

The colours with shade options can be used minimally to provide variations and contrast when designing. Only use the specified shade percentage for the colour. For example, using a lighter grey for a background instead of white, like this grey strip here.

Brand Colours

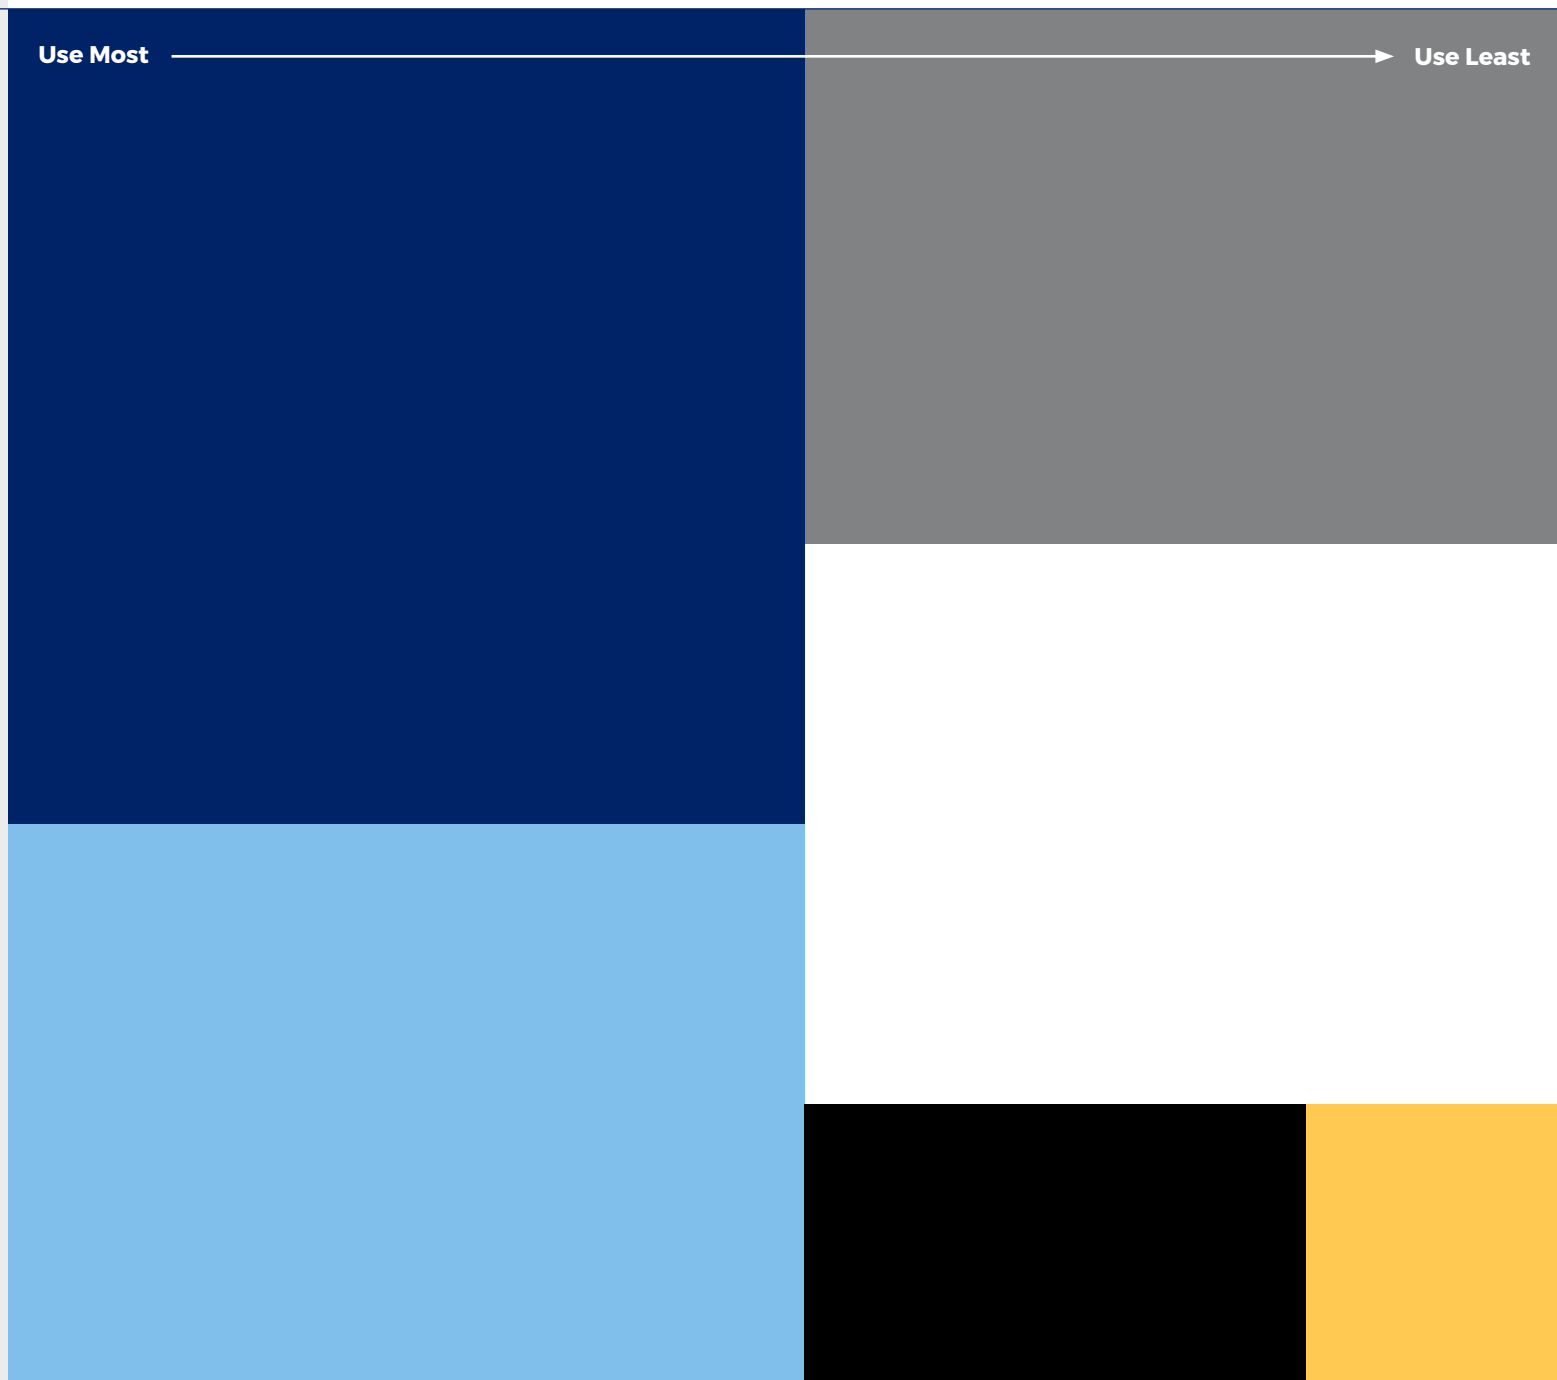

Colour Ratio

The brand should use the blues, grey and white as its dominant colours across all external and internal communications, these are Silverleaf's core colours and should be used most to create brand recognition. Examples could include, the website, parent information packs, signage, formal letters, school brochure.

The other colours should be used as minimally as highlight colours, especially on internal communications. Examples could include, a special event flyer, an exciting social media post, a fact sheet with lots of information.

Typography

Fonts and Hierarchy

Montserrat and Georgia are Silverleaf's brand fonts.

These are contemporary and versatile font families that are perfect for print and digital use and create contrast by using a sans-serif and serif font paired together, just like the Silverleaf brandmark.

Silverleaf also uses Noteworthy in bold for quotes, highlighted text, numbers or statistics. It's neat, handwritten style add a familiarity of a teacher's or student's handwriting to the brand.

Be brave with typeface scale in layout. Pairing oversized headings with smaller body copy adds visual interest and flair.

All these fonts are also available in the Silverleaf Canva Brandkit so can be used by team members who have access.

Standard Fonts

Where the brand fonts are not available, such as for email or word documents produced by staff, Helvetica should be used.

Patterns and Graphic Elements

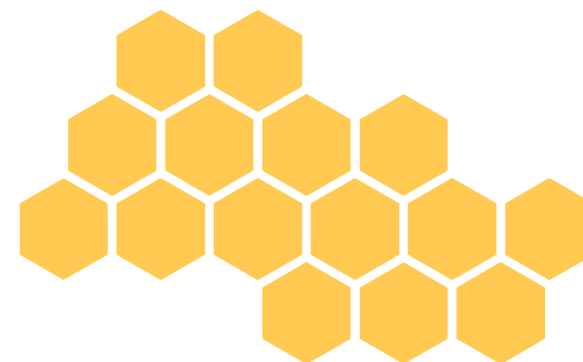

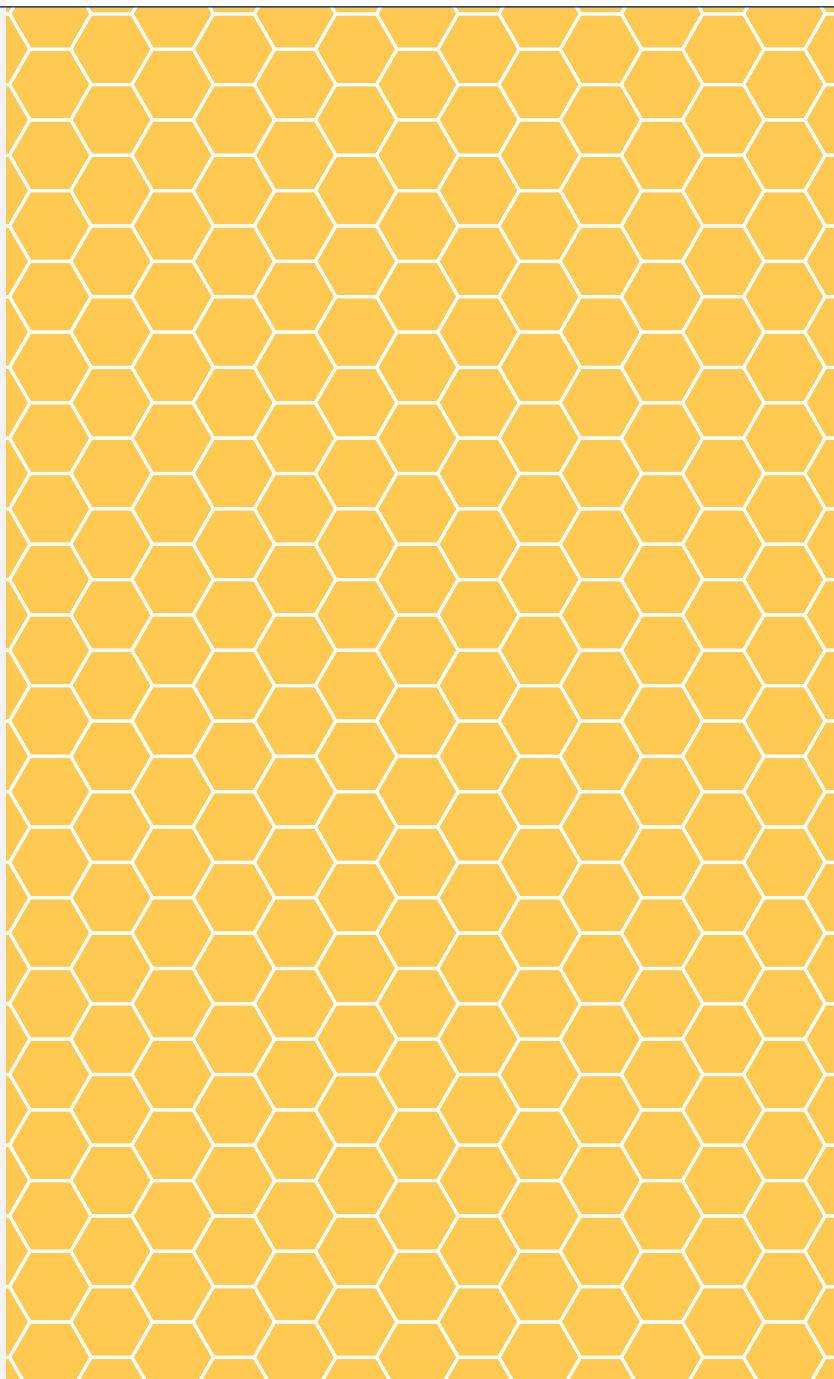

Patterns play a key role within Swahili fashion, arts and craft. While the brand will appeal to a professional audience, this as an opportunity to inject an authentic, child-inspired element of excitement into the brand.

Use the full patterns as a page background. Don't crowd your document with patterns, they should be used sparingly and to create visual interest on pages with little content.

The Beehive

Is how our brand feels, symbolising:

- Connection
- Teamwork
- Community for all
- Affordable
- Energy
- Busy Learning
- Buzz
- Fun
- Playful

The Future

Is how we envision our brand, symbolising:

- Forward thinking
- Technological
- Leading the way
- Pathways
- Opportunities
- Futuristic
- Continuity

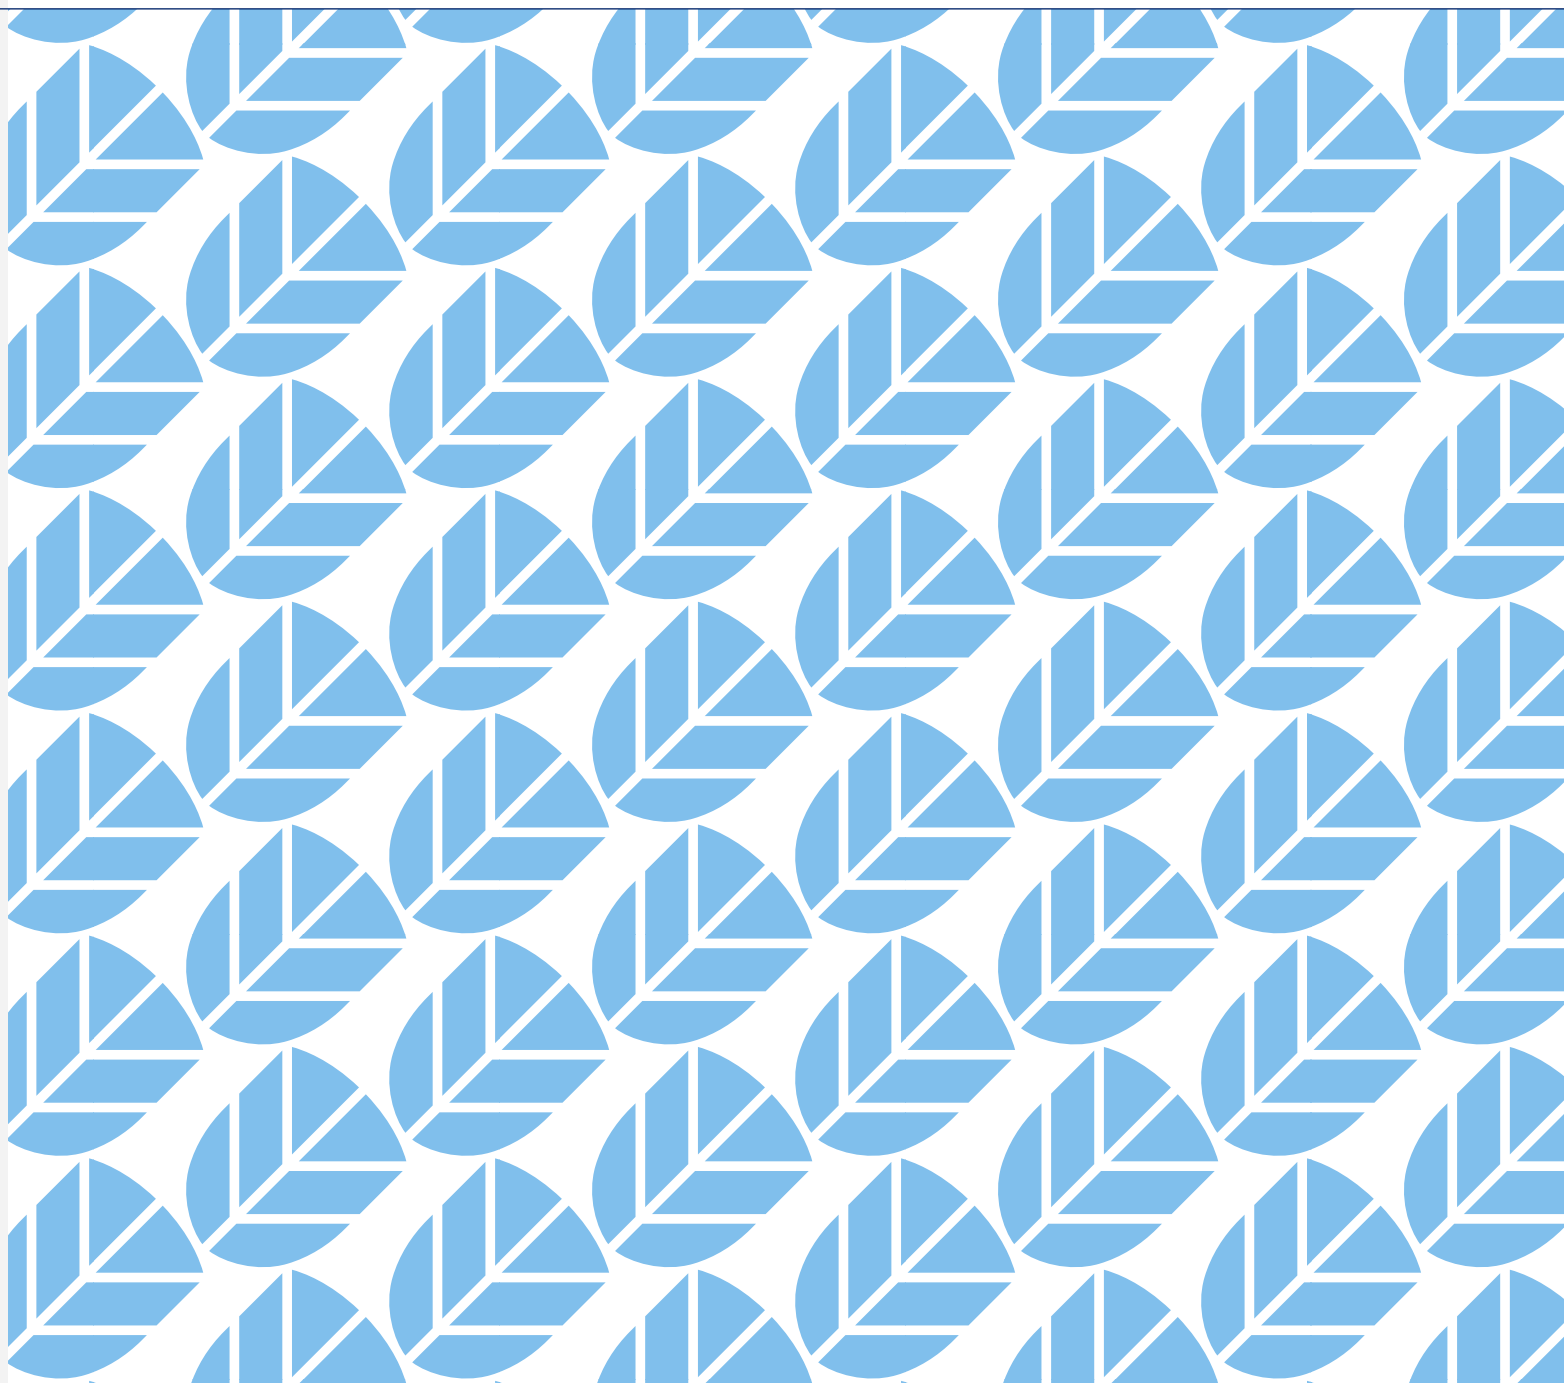

The Silverleaf

Is how our brand is perceived, symbolising:

- Strength
- Perseverance
- Little Warriors
- Growth
- High-quality
- Academic
- Bold
- Leaders

Please note: The Silverleaf pattern should only be used as a subtle background for a page or document, see next page for reference.

General Photography Rules

Photography is a key component in any communication about Silverleaf Academy. It is the first glimpse of life at Silverleaf for many prospective students and parents.

Therefore, it is important that any photography is respectful of the ethos and values of the school, and represents it in the best way possible.

DO:

- Ensure students are wearing correct uniforms in good condition
- Show smiles, fun, happiness, energy and faces of engaged subjects where possible
- Use natural light and backgrounds and provide all photos in colour
- Leave clear space around your subject so the images can be used widely across communications materials
- Show classrooms and facilities that are neat, tidy and free from clutter
- When capturing the Silverleaf logo, make sure it is visible and not cut off or obstructed. For example, on students' uniforms, on the school building.

DON'T:

- Show sadness or emotionless faces
- Show Silverleaf facilities in disrepair
- Oversaturate colours or apply filters when editing
- Show anyone in revealing dress, a state of undress or incorrect and tattered uniforms
- Show students doing hand signs or silly faces
- Place students in situations where their welfare is compromised when sourcing content for marketing and communications materials

In the Classroom Photo Tips:

- Students should be engaged with each other, the teacher or the camera
- Avoid all students looking in same direction. Instead, one of the students could look to camera and smile
- When shooting a large group, one student or the teacher should be the focal point to create depth in your photo
- Teachers and students can high-five, smile to each other or raise hands
- Avoid messy tables and desks
- Make sure you are not shooting from behind the students, you want to be in front so you can see their faces
- Position your subjects to left or right of frame, not in the center
- Try to shoot at the eye level of your subject

Examples of poor imagery

- Photos should tell a story and show faces, not backs of students. Also each student is wearing a different uniform.
- Student is wearing large jacket and other student is wearing a beanie not in the right colours
- Classroom looks messy and unorganised, with rubbish and broken chairs.

Photography

Technology Photo Tips:

- Students should be engaged with the ipad, smiling or looking interested
- Avoid all students looking down at ipad. Instead, one of the students could look to camera and smile
- The teacher or student could look to camera to make the photo more engaging
- Teachers and students can smile to each other
- Avoid messy tables and desks
- Make sure you are not shooting from behind the students, you want to be in front so you can see their faces
- Position your subjects to left or right of frame, not in the center
- Try to shoot at the eye level of your subject
- The teacher can bend down or kneel to the student's level for a better composition

Examples of poor imagery

- One student is squishing their face, avoid hands or anything covering their faces
- Look out for students wearing incorrect uniform, the girl is wearing a different shirt underneath her dress
- Make sure you have enough light so the photo is not too dark and gloomy and you are not shooting from behind the students

Play and Outdoor Photo Tips:

- Try to think of creative ways to position students and yourself when shooting outdoors. For example all students lying down on grass with heads together.
- Don't shoot with direct sunlight behind the subjects, position them so the sun is in front or to the side of them.
- Ensure students are in the correct uniforms from sports and outdoors.
- Although students are outdoors and having fun they shouldn't look messy, rough or dirty.

Examples of poor imagery

- A big group of students can look messy, these students are all in different uniforms with emotionless faces.
- Avoid students doing hand signs and wearing scarves, sweaters and beanies that are not part of the uniform.
- Make sure students are looking towards camera and are wearing same uniforms to look more formal and professional.

Photography

Silverleaf Lifestyle Photo Tips:

- Staff working together, training or celebrating
- Students eating lunch together
- Boarding facilities
- Transport provided
- Students and staff learning in the library
- Avoid big group lunch and plated food shots as it might make the school look like an NGO
- Try to highlight the elements that make Silverleaf a well-round, holistic school

Examples of poor imagery

- Students pulling silly faces
- Students in wrong uniforms
- The middle photo looks a little bit like an NGO photo, instead you could take a photo of students talking over tea, sitting down on grass and collaborating in front of the wall
- Students with backs to camera and wrong uniforms
